

Priority Access Referral Form: Life-Sustaining Health Services

Some Nova Scotians require therapy to support a vital function that is necessary for life. They must take time away from their normal everyday activities to receive life-sustaining services that are provided at a regional health centre by a licensed medical professional.

While Government is changing how healthcare is delivered by increasing access to virtual care and supports that connect patients with health care providers closer to home, in some cases people may need to move closer to a regional health centre to access the tertiary and quaternary life-sustaining health care services they need. Others may be waiting in hospital and cannot be discharged until they have a place to live that is closer to a regional health centre so they can access these services.

When a person who qualifies for public housing can demonstrate that there is a significant barrier to receiving a life-sustaining health service and therefore must move closer to a regional health centre to access the life-sustaining health service, they may be eligible for priority access and be placed on the Priority Access waitlist in chronological order.

Applicants may be eligible for priority access to public housing if a medical health professional certifies that they require regular, prolonged and in-person life-sustaining services to support a vital life function:

- ✓ With no expectation of cessation of services.
- ✓ These services can only be accessed at the regional health centre.

Healthcare innovation drives program design and delivery in Nova Scotia. For this reason, the life-sustaining health services eligibility criteria we use to determine eligibility for priority access to public housing is subject to change.

To be granted approval for priority access to public housing under the life-sustaining health services stream, applicants must provide the following documents to their Nova Scotia Provincial Housing Agency district office:

- 1. Public Housing Application Form  Completed by the applicant
- 2. Priority Access Referral Form
Life-Sustaining Health Services  Completed, dated and signed by a practicing medical health professional

The Priority Access Referral Form for Life-Sustaining Health Services must be completed, dated, and signed by a qualified medical professional.

The medical professional cannot be an applicant's friend, neighbour or relative.

If you or your referring professional have any questions or concerns about qualifying for priority access to public housing due to homelessness, please contact your district office by email at ApplicationsNSPHA.WD@novascotia.ca or by telephone at 1-800-306-3331.
